

GODDESS GUIDE: HOW TO CHOOSE A VIBRATOR

There are more vibrators out there than cars on the road! With so many choices how do you decide which vibrator is best? No worries, I'm here to help. Simply follow this step- by-step process and get ready to make the most exciting purchases of your life!

Step 1: Decide what you want to stimulate?

Consider three basic areas: your clitoris, your g-spot, and your vulva area. Many vibrators are designed to stimulate multiple areas, while other vibrators are specifically designed to target one specific part of the female anatomy.

Since most women require clitoral stimulation to achieve an orgasm, I recommend beginning with a vibrator that offers external, clitoral stimulation. The clitoris is very rich in nerve endings. While almost any vibrator can be used to stimulate the clitoris, certain shapes offer advantages. Smaller shapes like the Nea & Mia can be easily cupped in the hand and applied directly onto the clitoris.

The GiGi, Delight and bgee are designed for both external (clitoral) and internal (gspot) stimulation. Their cylinder shape provide for comfortable insertion while the curved end targets the much talked about g-spot. If you'd like to experience simultaneous g-spot and clitoris stimulation give Ina or Rabbit Habit a try!

Step 2: Consider your experience & comfort Level

If you (or your gift recipient is) new to vibrators, consider starting small, simple & beautiful. You'll likely find the vibrating sensation alone will rock your world, so don't get overwhelmed by features and functions. The Breeze Power Bullet 5" is easy to use, offers 3 levels of intensity, and is very economical ($14.99), which make it ideal for first-timers who just one to try one. Every vibrator featured at Goddess Unleashed is ideal for beginners & experienced women alike.

Step 3: Keep power & price in mind.

High quality, battery operated vibrators such as bgood, & bgee can be used under water! Battery operated vibrators will be less expensive than rechargeable vibrators such as Liv and GiGi and plug in vibrators like Wahl and Hatachi, however battery operated massagers will be louder, and require battery changes. Rechargeable massagers (Liv, GiGi) and plug in massagers (Hatachi, Wahl) are more expensive because they last longer and they are capable of producing more power, with less noise. Furthermore, they offer various degrees of intensity and an assortment of sensations like pulses, surges and staccato vibrations. This enables you to start with a very gentle, smooth vibration and graduate to more intense vibrations once you become acclimated to vibration. Goddess Unleashed offers only the highest quality, most beautifully designed and tastefully packaged vibrators available!

Step 4: Have fun choosing color, shape and texture.

Vibrators come in all kinds of colors, shapes and textures. Some vibrators, such as Fem Blossom or Womolia can be heated while the Ice Vibe is the world's first vibrating ice cube! Also, consider waterproof, more discrete vibrators like I Rub My Duckie for bath time fun.

Step 5: Try one!

You really can't go wrong when choosing a vibrator from Goddess Unleashed. We've screened out a deluge of poor quality vibrators to offer you only the best vibrators for your budget, pleasure & enjoyment! My personal recommendation: Start with a GiGi for internal & external pleasure, the Hatachi Magic Wand for full body fun and a bgee for waterproof play!
